

ACTIVELY SUPPORTING...

WHAT IS TECHSPACE?

TechSpace is a not-for-profit, open consortium of organisations established to create a major impact on creative digital youth education on a national scale. We are developing a national network of digital 'TechSpaces' within youth services, converting young people from being passive users into active creators of digital content.

We do this by building the capacity of youth organisations to integrate ICT into the services they offer to young people

OUR MISSION

- Inspire young people to use their native interest in technology to become digital creators, rather than just consumers of technology
- Train & support educators to confidently identify and adopt technologies within their pedagogy & learning programmes
- Create learning communities of educators, young people, mentors, & volunteers

TechSpace is funded through grants and donations from partners and sponsors, CSR initiatives, foundations and Government agencies

tech space

The consortium is managed by Camara Ireland and includes all major youth services and organisations for example Foróige, YMCA Ireland and CDYSB

Supported by trained youth workers, educators and adult mentors, young people build confidence and learn skills to help them succeed in their lives and future careers
